COTTON MARKETS

Disturbing Foreign News Encourages Further Bearish Efforts in Market.

Wednesday afternoon. March 26
In the cotton market there seems to be one thing after another to upset buillah calculations and enable the board to hammer values. No sooner is one new phase met and overcome, giving rise to a feeling of hopefulness of the worst having passed, than something else develops which calls for adjustment. The latest thing is the aprising of Hungary, with its possibilities of zerious results and deay to the skening of peace. So long as this latter is postponed there seems small chance of business people taking hold of anything with any degree of confidence or certainty.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON. NEW ORLEANS, March 26.—Rains in the boil caused a rise of 1 to 19 points in the price of cotton on the opening today but the market soon felt heavy selling, stimulated by the unfavorable political news from abroad and broke sharply. At the end of the first half hour of business prices were 30 to 51 points under Monday's close. Trading was confined to new contracts.

Early sellers started realizing and at noon prices were 20 points up from

ROUND THE TICKER

New Orleans—Liverpool better than due. The political situation is not good and may cause some further liquidation and selling and cause a short interest to exist which would cause a sharp rally on any favorable news.—Shepard and Ginck.

New Orleans—Of much more importance to the cotton tends than the

and Gluck.

New Orieans—Of much more importance to the cutton trade than the weakness in foreign exchange is the information, said to be original, that the British rate on cotton, Webb compressed, from Guif ports to Liverpool has been reduced to $1.60 per 100 pounds, which is only 16 cents higher than the rate on American bottoms. The importance in this development lies in that fact that the British have the tonage and the South has the cotton. Now that the ocean rate has been cut to such an extent on English vessels, the staple is likely to be exported more freely in the future.—H & B. Beer.

New York—Liquidation and professional selling on European situation caused decline. McFadden brokers buy-ing May. Texas basis reported easier in spite of decline in futures.—Cleven-burg to Cotter & Turner.

New York—Spot houses buying May and July quietly.—Hubbard & Reese. New York—Liquidation old contracts demoralized market on opening: trades bearish, not selling and to those sales. —Hubbard to Reese.

Hubbard to Reese.

New York Cotton Opinions: Carpenter & Co.—Nearly all markels were badly depressed by reports that peace settlement might be indefinitely postponed by revolutionary movements in Hungary backed up by military sup-port from Russian Bolshevists. Hut-ton & Co.: We still remain of the opin-ion that until condition outside of the trade becomes more settled there is little likelihood of any improvement in prices.

New York—All New York papers emphasize seriousness new European situation precipitated by Hungary. In cotton circles bills are beginning to doubt correctness of their recent advice to buy all setbacks, some fearing the next crop may be on market before Europe is in shape to take cotton in quantity. Foreign exchange situation also against market, as it has operated to checknew business by exporters. Liquidation free Monday by Livermore and other big professional longs sold out, which improves technical position, but it may be difficult to avoid still lower prices unless there is a distinct improvement abroad—Cievenburg night letter to Cotter & Turner.

New Orleans—Weather unfavorable.

sems best purchase.—Fenner to Gus-

Seems best purchase.—Fenner to Gartafson.

Galveston clears 11,980 bales of cotton for England. This day last year total exports were 6,637 bales.

New Orleans.—Telegrams from New York this morning say that the situation in Europe is daily growing worse. There is a rumor that former Premier Karolyi of Hungary has been assassinated. Feeling in the stock market is growing very bearish and some Wall street selling of cotton is the natural consequence. A report on the new crop is expected from the Watkins bureau shortly and Bachman & Co., of New York claim it will be the most hullish crop report ever issued this carly in the season.—Shepard & Gluok. rop report ever issued this che season.—Shepard & Gluck. New Orleans.—Unsettled, nervoux unless reassuring news soon from Eu-rope further selling pressure likely.— Clark to Cotter & Turner.

Chicago—Commission bouses absorbed offerings of corn on the break and the market acted rather tight. Pressure on oats in evidence on the bulge. There is a bid here from the Seaboard this morning for 25,000 bushels cash corn.—Wagner & Co.

Seaboard this morning for acceptable bushels cash corn.—Wagner & Co.

Chicago—We advise putting fresh business into July and Sept. corn as trading in May is becoming difficult. Market action now is much the result of news. Case of covering of short May by houses which have been committed to short side for some time.—Wagner & Co.

Chicago—I don't want to buy corn after such a sensational advance, although with the light stocks here for delivery the May could be put to most any price, with the public generally heavily long of it. I prefer to take advantage of the strong bulges in July and Sept. sales in an effort to strike near the top for an extended decline which is sure to come when it starts.—Renn. to Shepard & Gluck.

Chicago—Michaels. of the Tribune.

which is sure to come when a status.

—Renn, to Shepard & Gluck.

Chicago—Michaels, of the Tribune, says those who take a long view of the grain markets see lower prices, ahead, as they believe that the present conditions are almost entirely due to the large quantities of wheat, rye and barley held by the food administration, and with the passing of the present food control act, the food administration, and with the passing of the present food control act, the food administration will have to be liquidated unless ways can be found to dispose of them. Best posted men say that sufficient shipping cannot be secured to move all the grain out of the country that the food administration holds and that a large carry-over into the new crop is certain. It is said to have nearly 19,000,000 bushels of rye alone—Wagner & Co.
